CITY TO BE ENLARGED.

A Scheme to Take the County in the Limits of Cincinnati.

Lessening of Taxation and Fewer Officers Promised—How a Wealthy Corporation Was Worsted by Citizens.

CINCINNATI, July 19.—There is being formulated a scheme to make this city and Hamilton county coextensive. It may not be ready this winter for the Legislature to take hold of it and refer it to their able committee on municipal corporations, where through diverse ideas, opinions and amendments it can be molded into suitable shape for passage, but the question is bound to arise sometime within a year or so. I am not at liberty to give anything more than the mere fact that such a project is being talked about, and a general outline of the arguments that will be used to support it. The projectors say that as far as taxation is concerned, the rate would be uniform instead of as now, two rates, one for city and the other for county purposes, and in place of an increase which the opponents of the measure will urge, there will be in fact a decrease. All expenditures relating to the country districts would be met out of consolidated funds, the city deriving a benefit or increase in its funds by adding to them the one-third of the proceeds of the tax duplicate which is now used by the county alone, and the county in a like manner sharing equally in the projects of general improvements, securing a more perfect and wealthier system of roads, bridges, police, educational and other purposes. Fifteen incorporated villages would be annexed, thus lessening considerably the taxation required to keep up separate governments. The police system would of course be increased, but not to the extent of expenditures for this purpose under the present system of separate incorporated jurisdictions. Again, much, it is urged would be saved in school expenses, all the schools of the county thus coming under the care of the city Board of Education. Further, a decrease of officials would follow in abolishing the City Treasurer, Comptroller, and Board of Public Works, as well as the Treasurers, Auditors, Mayors and Councilmen of the several incorporated villages in the county. The duties performed by these officers would be transferred to the city Treasurer, Auditor and Commissioners, the Mayor of the city and Board of Councilmen. Connected with this scheme it is proposed to reduce the latter body to the smallest number consistent with the requirements and responsibilities of municipal legislation. Another feature insisted upon is that in place of the extra expense incurred in keeping up two infra-arias a consolidation would be effected under one direction that of the city. This is but an outline of the proposition, but a grand howl will be raised when the matter is advanced sufficiently for public criticism. It will be presented by the opposition that none of the means for lessening taxation under the project can be realized; that the old system of two jurisdictions, city and county is the best, and to change as proposed, would entail expense and indebtedness of burdensome amount; that the country districts would in no wise be benefited since their interests would merely be neglected for those of the city proper. But, notwithstanding this view the scheme will come to the public for discussion and be eventually accomplished.

Big corporations are not always powerful. Ten years ago the Cincinnati Fertilizing Company, the backbone of which was in abundant capital furnished by several gentlemen who had the inside of local finance and privileges, obtained a contract from the city very favorable to itself. This contract involved the removal of all dead animals and offal suitable for the company's purpose from the city limits, the city paying therefore $15,000 per year. The company utilized the carcasses and offal in the manufacturing of fertilizers, on which a handsome profit accrued, in addition to the sum paid by the city. As a consequence the company waxed fat, saucy and exacting, insisting upon its right to have the contract renewed at the old rate, but upon the Board of Public Works advertising for bids for removing dead animals and offal for the next ten years, it was found that several companies would do the work from one-third to one-fifth less than it had been done heretofore. Indeed, if it came to the point, one or two companies outside the city offered to do the service gratuitously, but the old company reorganized and renamed, got the contract on its bid of being paid $2,500 per year. In the meantime the company's factory, which for years had been located at Delhi, seven or eight miles down the river, and suffered the anathemas of everybody in the neighborhood on account of its nauseating odors, was removed to Spring Grove avenue, but three miles from the heart of the city. This occurred about a year ago and when the early spring came on and the factory sent forth its horrible aroma the citizens within a mile of the locality, and they included many who occupy some of the most attractive and luxurious houses in the city, arose in their wrath and the Dissociating Company's factory was indicted as a nuisance. Si Keck, President of the company, said $100,000 would be used in litigation before the factory would move, but it seems he and the directors have changed their minds since no more dead animals are boiled on Spring Grove. The company have gone back to Delhi. This is one instance where a powerful corporation got the worst of it in a tussle with the suffering citizens.

WAUGH.

It Was a Voice Held Him Back.
New York, July 18.—Mr. J. C. Noble, whose self-written obituary appeared in the Tribune, and was supposed to have committed suicide, was found by a reporter, to whom he made the following statement:

"I have had a strange life—a life full of remarkable experiences. I've been rich and poor, and I've had friends a great deal better than I deserve. I was on the ferry-boat between Cortland street and Jersey City all night and tried to commit suicide by jumping over, but each time was restrained by the voice of my Savior. They may think I am crazy, but I'm not. I never harmed a human being in my intentions." He carried a stone weighing six or seven pounds wrapped up in a paper with him all Monday night, which he said he intended to attach to a cord and tie around his neck.

FATHER CORRIGAN'S IDEAS.

A Book That the Catholic Authorities Do Not Endorse.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Rev. Patrick Corrigan, pastor of the Catholic Church of Our Lady of Grace, Hoboken, has written a pamphlet of forty-five pages on "Episcopal Nominations," which has been condemned by Bishop Wigger of his diocese, who ordered the suppression of the edition. The publishers, however, had already issued about 600 copies, part of which are in circulation. Father Corrigan is pastor of what is perhaps the largest congregation in the United States. It is said that from 9,000 to 10,000 persons attend his church. The pamphlet is addressed to the priests of the United States, and begins with the following statement:

"The best interests of the Church in the United States require that the priests, or a certain qualified number of them, should have the power of nominating the Bishops. The subject is indeed a delicate one," the writer says, "but we can hardly expect the Bishops themselves to take the initiative. I simply undertake to sow the seed. The mere preliminary step may easily be followed, if necessary, by a proper organization, the branches of which will extend to every diocese, in order to obtain the sentiment of all the Bishops and priests of the land. The whole matter rests with the Bishops, for it is certain that Rome will grant this power to the priests if the Bishops think it for the best interests of the Church of this country."

The author describes the condition of the Church in Italy, France, and Spain, and adds: "The very Pope himself does not dare to appear on the streets of Rome for fear of losing his life, nor does he dare to leave Italy lest the Government should try to procure a man who would be willing to play the part of Pope in Italy."

Writing of the defects of the present system, the Rev. Mr. Corrigan calls attention to the fact that there is not a solitary representative of the American Church in the city of Rome nor a representative from Rome in the United States, and that the very Bishops of the American Church are dependent on the enterprise of a pious lady convert at Rome for the first authentic information of the appointment of the Bishops of this country.

"Yes, the pamphlet has been discounted by the Bishops," said the Rev. Mr. Corrigan.

"On what grounds?"

"That I am wrong on the questions of the Bishops, the schools and the finances. But a very small part of the edition of 8,000 copies had been issued when its publication was stopped by my order."

"Do you preach these doctrines from your pulpit?"

"I have done so. But as the matter stands at present I do not feel at liberty to converse on the subject."

RETICENT KER.

The Bankers Will Try to Recover From the Brokers.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Fredrick Ker, the defaulting clerk, brought here after his capture in Peru, refused to plead, either guilty or not guilty, when arraigned. He was remanded to jail. His former employer, Mr. Kean, of Preston, Kean & Co., said:

"I did not elicit anything new from Mr. Ker in my interview with him," "but I think he is penitent, and will aid us to recover our loss to the best of his ability. According to memorandums furnished us he commenced his stealing three years ago, and used most of the money in speculating on the Board of Trade. I believe he did not take away very much more than was found on him at his arrest, and that is hardly enough to pay the expenses of the chase. We may be able to recover from the brokers who got the money out of Ker, but of that I can not speak at present. Ker says he intended to go into business in South America and repay us every cent, but that is an old story dishonest employees frequently use to gain sympathy. As soon as we obtain any definite statement from Ker we will make it public."

Sullivan and Slade.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Some time ago an agreement was entered into between Messrs. Al Smith and H. J. Rice, acting on behalf of Sullivan and Slade, for an encounter with the gloves, to take place at Madison Square Garden. This fell through, owing to the rent of the building having been doubled and Rice declining to agree to the payment of $1,000. Mace now states that Rice was not acting with any authority in the matter and that he is not willing to allow Slade to meet any one unless the receipts are shared equally. Sullivan's principal supporter holds the key to the situation, and he informed a reporter that it was no use of Mace or any one else attempting to get better terms for a match with Sullivan than 35 per cent. of the receipts. As there is no possibility of making a match with Sullivan on any terms other than those stated Mace will have to agree to them if Slade is to meet the champion. Mace says he will meet Mitchell, but there is nothing in that offer, as the latter is now in California.

TELEGRAPH TROUBLES.

No Strike as Yet But Condition Feverish.

Action of Western Union Directors—Arrangements Made to Supply Places of Strikers.

NEW YORK, July 19.—At the regular weekly meeting of the executive committee of the directors of the Western Union Telegraph Company, the following was adopted:

Resolved, That a committee, consisting of ex-Governor Cornell, J. W. Clendenin and John T. Terry be appointed to inquire into the complaints of irregularities of compensation and the condition of service of employees of this company, if any, and report to this committee.

One of the gentlemen who attended the meeting says the sentiment was unanimously in support of the action of General Eckert in his reception of the committee who called on him to present the memorial on Monday last, and that his letter to Colonel Clowry, of Chicago, outlining the position and resources of the company and calling attention to the exorbitant demands of that committee, was likewise discussed and warmly approved. The meeting did not take cognizance, in fact, of that petition, since it was held that whatever complaints employees of the company might have to make must be made directly by themselves to the company's officers. The sub-committee is not empowered except to make a report next week, on Wednesday, when the full committee meets again. The composition of the committee, however, is of some interest, as bearing on the temper of the meeting and its future action. Clendenin, one of the members, is President of the Acadia Coal Company, which has extensive mines in Pictou, Nova Scotia. The miners there have been a turbulent community and have frequently indulged in strikes. Clendenin has always managed these crises, and never yielded to the demands made through the medium of a strike. Ex-Governor Cornell and Terry are also said to be opposed to strikes as a means of settling wage difficulties. The Wheatstone is a system of rapid transmission of messages and news. It has been in use for many years in England, but is a comparatively new thing in this country. The instrument will do nearly ten times the work that can be done over an ordinary wire. Should the Wheatstone operators remain and the other operators strike, the telegraph company would have a considerable advantage through the use of this system. The members of the Brotherhood claim that nearly all the Wheatstone men are willing to go out, while the officers of the company say that not more than two or three of the nineteen local employees and not a large number of those elsewhere will consent to strike.

One of the directors of the Western Union told a reporter that arrangements had been perfected by which, in case of a strike, English operators would come on from the other side. This story was reported to Mr. Eugene J. O'Connor, one of the committee that waited on General Eckert.

CLEVELAND, O., July 19.—The Western Union operators in this city number sixty-five, while there are 270 members of the Telegrapher's league in the city and vicinity. They are ready to take their coats and leave the office the moment the strike is ordered. The operators have been looking all day for the order to come. All of the Western Union men will go out on the strike, with the exception of six non-union operators.

PITTSBURGH, July 18.—All day the vicinity of the Western Union office, on Fifth avenue, was thronged with operators and curiosity seekers, and at the noon hour, when it was expected that the operators would come out, the crowd was so great that for a time the street was blocked. A great deal of dissatisfaction is expressed among members of the Brotherhood that the strike was not inaugurated.

Valuable Seizure.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Eight trunks and two packages were confiscated at the Guion line steamship pier. It was learned that the owner of the goods intended taking them to Mexico, where he has a large mercantile business. One of the trunks was found to be packed full of the finest silks, laces, head trimming, silk hose, gloves and expensive fabrics of many kinds. They were all in their original packages and had never been used. It was roughly estimated over $2,500 worth of valuable goods. It is believed that the articles contained in all the trunks will prove to be worth $20,000 when they are appraised. They were all carefully packed, some enclosed in tin, and one trunk was encased in a dry goods case.

Charity For The Blind.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Mr. William Blake, Superintendent of outdoor poor, has had a warrant drawn for $20,000 to cover the sum drawn that, under the act of 1875, the Charity Commissioners are authorized to yearly distribute among the industrious blind residents of this county. The total number whose applications have been approved is 466. It is proposed to pay to each $38.

Captain Webb's Perilous Feat.

BOSTON, July 19.—Captain Matthew Webb, the champion swimmer, performed the perilous feat of swimming the entire length of Hull Gut. This is the most dangerous inlet on the coast, with an extraordinary depth of water and very strong counter currents. Captain Webb gave an exhibition of fancy swimming, during which he dove from a tower ninety feet high,

DEFAULTING TREASURER.

Money Said to Have Been Lost in Speculation by a Catholic Knight.

GRAFTON, W. VA., July 20.—John L. Hechmer, for five years supreme treasurer of the Catholic Knights of America, was defeated for re-election. On June 20, Mr. O'Brien, of Chattanooga, Tenn., the treasurer elected, came to this city. A settlement was had and Mr. Hechmer turned over $16,000, retained his books and received money till Saturday last. At the time of settlement Hechmer kept $2,000 to pay a draft supposed to be in transit. The draft did not come and Mr. Hechmer took up the money to express, so he said, to Chattanooga. After the lapse of two weeks the treasurer at Chattanooga telegraphed the bank here concerning the deposit and was wired of Hechmer's action. He explained that the money was not promptly sent, but was then on the way. The money not coming, W. E. Russell, of Lebanon, Ky., president of the association, came here on Sunday last. Russell telegraphed to Cumberland, and the express messenger said no such package had been handled there. The agent here said the same. Hechmer's office was searched, and the books found. On Sunday night he left, and is supposed to be en route for Europe.

He made a full confession before leaving. On June 23 he made an assignment for the benefit of a few creditors, but the deed of trust was not offered for record till July 14. His personal liabilities were $5,000; assets nominal. His bond, in the sum of $50,000, is said to be worthless on account of irregularities. His father and father-in-law are on the bond. So far as can be ascertained now the shortage is likely to reach from $30,000 to $50,000. The financial standing of the order is not affe. His friends say credits will reduce the shortage to from $10,000 to $20,000. He had handled $400,000 in five years.

General Sheridan's House.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The correspondence between Lieutenant General P. A. Sheridan and the citizens of this city who presented him a residence in Washington City in anticipation of his assumption of command of the armies of the United States next fall, when General Sherman will retire, will be made public shortly. The letter of presentation is signed by thirty-one prominent citizens, including Anson Stager, Marshall Field, Geo. M. Pullman, N. K. Fairbanks, C. B. Farwell, Joseph Medill, P. D. Armour, Potter Palmer, L. Z. Leiter and T. B. Blackstone. The letter is a tribute to Sheridan as a soldier and citizen, and an expression of the warm personal friendship of the donors. General Sheridan's letter of acknowledgment expresses his high appreciation of this neighborly evidence of regard in his chosen home as commander of the department of Missouri, and says when he assumes his new duties the fact that his new home was presented to him by Chicago friends, will be a matter of special pleasure to him.

The Tom Thumb Funeral.

MIDDLEBORO, MASS., July 19.—At the funeral of General Tom Thumb, every effort was made to have it as quiet as possible and no display was made. The body was inclosed in a walnut coffin, covered with broadcloth, and trimmed with Masonic emblems. The plate bore the simple inscription, "Charles S. Stratton, aged forty-five years." The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Fairbanks, and were very brief and impressive. The Mayflower Lodge of Masons escorted the body to the train.

The Alleged Outrage at Monterey.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Regarding the report of the alleged assault by a mob on the acting United States Consul at Monterey, Mexico, Assistant Secretary of State John Davis said that this Government had received no official information about it. Until an authentic report was received no action could be taken by the department. He said if the report was true there would be a speedy investigation of the matter demanded. Officials at the Mexican legation were equally ignorant.

A Sister's Lover Killed.

PITTSBURGH, PA., July 19.—Charles Seitz, a paper-hanger of Allegheny City, fatally shot Dr. G. W. Langfit at the latter's house in Bellevue, seven miles from the city. Langfit was engaged to Seitz's sister for several years, but a short time ago broke the engagement without explanation, and this so enraged Seitz that he borrowed a revolver and went down to Bellevue and shot Langfit on sight.

Kellogg Case.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—In the Criminal Court Judge Wylie delivered an opinion upon the pleas in abatement by the defense and the demurrer entered by the Government in the case of the United States against William Pitt Kellogg, charged with illegally receiving money while United States Senator for his action in connection with the expedition of certain star routes. He dismissed the pleas.

The Stolen Ledger.

NASHVILLE, TENN., July 19.—Swain the man arrested for stealing the ledger so important in the Polk trial, has confessed that he took it at the instigation of ex-Treasurer Polk; also, that he received $175 for the deed.

FOREIGN MATTERS.

Progress of the Asiatic Plague—The International Sanitary Convention—The Franco-English Understanding.

ALEXANDRIA, July 18.—Reports of deaths from cholera are as follows: At Damietta, 18; Mansurah, 45; Menzaleh, 42; Samanoud, 22; Chobar, 11; Cairo, 17; Chirbin, 6, and Tanka, 6.

ALEXANDRIA, July 18.—The telegraph announces twelve deaths at Cairo from cholera, and the actual number of fatal cases is believed to be much greater than is reported. It is extremely doubtful if the proposition to isolate Alexandria can be carried out, even if it is not too late. It is understood the plan is opposed by English officers and by the Consuls of foreign governments who are unwilling to deprive Europeans of all means of escape. The cordon will be strictly maintained.

MADRID, July 18.—The Spanish Government is enforcing a three days' retaliatory quarantine at all ports on all vessels arriving from British ports, whether with clean bills of health or not.

LONDON, July 18.—General Sir Evelyn Wood, commander of the forces in Egypt, who had embarked at Suez for England, has returned by order of the khedive, in consequence of the appearance of cholera in Cairo.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, July 18.—Hon. Augustus Haget has been appointed British Ambassador to the Court of Vienna.

LONDON, July 18.—The shooting for the Kolapore cup took place at Wimbledon today. The prize was competed for by teams representing England, Canada, Islands of Jersey and Guernsey and India. The teams were composed of eight men each. The firing was at 200, 500 and 600 yards. Each man was allowed seven shots at each range. The cup was won by the English team. The scores were as follows: England, 698; Canada, 679; Jersey, 638; Guernsey, 621; India, 614.

A revision of the scores made by American riders in their shooting Thursday and yesterday for the cup and £50 specially presented for that competition, shows that Van Huesen was victor, as his score for the two day's shooting was 172, against a total of 169 for Joiner.

BRISBANE, July 18.—The Executive Council has forwarded a memorial to Earl Derby, Secretary of the Colonies, urging the Government to reconsider the decision to forbid the annexation of New Guinea to Queensland and inviting them to take steps to provide a Federal Government for Australia.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI, July 18.—Li Hung Chang, who has been negotiating here with Tricou, the French Ambassador, has arrived at Tientsin.

FRANCE.

PARIS, July 18.—The necessity for sending M. Waddington as Ambassador to England, as shown by to-day's announcement of his appointment, is commented upon by the French press as indicating an annoyingly serious condition of affairs and the existence of complications which the public does not foresee. The return of M. Lecour to the Foreign Office has been a great disappointment to several branches of the Republican party, who had considered his sudden trip to Vichy, with the announcement that he was ill and that his stay would be indefinite, as only preliminary to the resignation of his portfolio. They regard the establishment of perfect cordiality with England as essential in the presence of the triple alliance, and blame the head of the Foreign Office for the misunderstandings growing out of the Madagascar affair.

PARIS, July 18.—The Very Rev. Bishop Graves, Bishop of Namur, died yesterday. Heavy floods have occurred in the Upper Rhone Valley, especially in the Swiss border and in the mountains. Bridges and houses have been swept away and rail travel has been seriously impeded.

Letters received here from French missionaries in Madagascar are filled with complaints that the course pursued by the French naval authorities has been such as to lead to confusion and terrorism and to endanger the lives of priest and converts alike in the interior.

SCULPTOR'S SUICIDE.

Horrible Discovery in a New York Tenement House.

NEW YORK, July 19.—After lying several days in a room in a tenement house the remains of Frank Thavard were found, attention thereto having been attracted by a sickening odor coming from the room. The body was in a sitting posture on the floor, the head resting on an over-turned chair. In his left hand Thavard held a small mirror and in his right a revolver was tightly clutched. The face of the dead man was swollen, and the whole appearance of the body indicated that he must have been dead several days. He had evidently seated himself on the floor, and, after leaning back against the pillow so as to be able to get a good view of his face, deliberately placed the revolver to his head and fired. A ghastly wound on the right side of the head showed where the fatal bullet had done its work.

Thavard was up to a year ago a steady workman; but he fell into bad habits, and as these grew upon him he came home nightly under the influence of liquor. After his wife's departure, he lived like a hermit in his room, permitting no female to enter it under any circumstances.

FATHERSON, N. J., July 19.—Henry Bauman, who keeps a hotel along the banks of the Passaic river, near this city, has offered a reward for the names of some Frenchmen who, he declares, in their enthusiasm on the 14th, offered an insult to the American flag. He says the Frenchmen had a picnic near his place in the woods, and some of them caught sight of an American flag, which he had floating from the top of a tree. They thought he hoisted the flag to anger them, and they not only tore it down, but reduced it to shreds, trampled it in the mud and destroyed the tree. They then, he says, destroyed the vegetables he had growing in his garden.

Ain't She a Daisy?

Chicago Inter-Ocean.
Anything refreshing is particularly acceptable in this weather, and a young man from Kalamazoo has contributed a cooling breeze. He boarded a west bound train on the Michigan Central in company with a buxom lass who blushed carmine and looked foolishly happy. Standing in the aisle, the young man said, with a joyous pride that illuminated the darkest corner of the car: "Ladies and gentlemen, this is my wife, Mrs. Heuffer. Ain't she a daisy?" The delighted auditors heartily concurred, and the couple took a seat, sharing between them a smile that would have served for a calcium light. Mr. Heuffer believes in unbridled felicity, and the chances are that he will get through life without losing any flesh in apprehensive worry over the loyalty of his daisy.

Distempered Atmosphere.

Ed. Daily Bulletin: While there is little probability of the Asiatic scourge appearing in our midst during the present season, its existence and marked progress abroad naturally suggest thoughts upon public hygiene on general principles. And clearly enough the matter is one of consequence, individually and collectively.

To awaken and maintain an effective, working interests in sanitary measures in the face of a merely nominal death rate and the irresponsible report from time to time of general health is, for obvious reasons, a difficult matter in any community. The various absorbing affairs of life, the absence of proper knowledge, or the want of combined effort induces a condition of false security or real indifference, which nothing short of an epidemic with its startling mortality ever removes. However produced, this laxity in a matter of moment is not the part of wisdom; it is not up to the average of intelligent activity in most affairs; it is little short of criminal in view of ascertained results.

Asiatic cholera, where prevalent, certainly affords a fearful outlet for human life; the grand total of its fatality is appalling. It is but one avenue, however, could we aggregate the mortality from fevers, dysentery, cholera infantum and kindred affections, we would scarcely know on which side the fateful ledger to place the rightful balance. But with this difference, one generated abroad and alien to our clime, over-steps quarantine and other regulations, practically defies measures abortive of its existence and at long intervals startles us alike with its abrupt invasion and ruthless progress. Confessedly, it is in a measure beyond control, and we are, so far, acquit of wrong.

The other is "to the manor born," essentially home productions and only too often come from the wilful neglect of sanitary measures the most simple.

There is, unfortunately, no royal road to health; so long as the human organism and the elements remain the same, there can be no absolute prevention of disease, of course—the conspiracies against life must exist. But it is feasible to insure the largest average of one, to sensibly lessen the percentage of the other. It requires but little science, and no statistics, to establish the truth of the assertion that we are mainly the architects of our own misfortunes in this regard; that the non-observance of natural laws, too plain and familiar to demand repetition, is the fruitful source of many diseases of the term.

Aside from the matter of diet (the popular idea of which is one of taste only), our organisms reasonably want, need, demand a given amount of pure, vitalizing air!

Every intelligent and observant physician will attest that our enemies proper—diseases peculiar to our own locality—are few in number. Not only so, but that in a given number of cases the essential cause of disease is very many times traceable to local centers of infection—local to the particular or adjacent household, though seemingly well ordered. Even the non-professional nostril may, in some localities, detect a "something in the air," though failing to estimate results in the matter of health.

In substance, the diseases enumerated are out of proportion in frequency, as a rule, to those known to be dependent upon locality, and in a measure unavoidable.

Of course this is not without sufficient cause. The "pestilential heathen" is many times at our door—the back door, possibly, but there; there is the foul vault that has not been cleaned or disinfected within the memory of man, perhaps; in the sewer which varies in odor, but purifies itself never; in the gutter or sink, innocent of pure water for weeks and months of ceaseless deviltry; in the garbage pile, rich in effluvia, "rising as it rots," even in much water that is consumed, loaded as it is with decaying organic matter, and confidingly swallowed from day to day, without challenge or shade of suspicion.

All such localities are rank poison centers. The aggregate of their vile effluvia there is no arithmetic to estimate, and normal or pure air is no component thereof. It is idle and absurd to assume that such atmospheric conditions are negative in results; if so, all sanitary principle is a fraud. It is nothing that we have no epidemics—that we do not die in platoons instead of singly. Aerial poisons, especially, are none the less sure for being slow; and then it is only so much ready material, awaiting proper conditions to develop into intensity and virulence. Cholera, introduced at New York, has more than once skipped across the continent, and finding a lodgment in cities of the far West, enjoying far better conditions than we can boast to-day, has ravaged them almost to the last soul.

Briefly, all this constitutes a prime factor for absolute positive evil, and evil only, alike for the present and future. If properly appreciated, few would willingly assume the responsibility now so lightly held. The situation differs in nowise from others in which the masses are concerned, while a matter for corporate or municipal action, the question of efficiency reverts to the individuals at last. To remedy or remove all this it is only necessary for every head of a household to resolve himself into a committee of one upon domestic cleanliness, and see that its simple rules are rigidly enforced. Effective disinfectants are abundant and cheap, there need be no lavish expenditure of money or muscle, results are speedy and certain. The great end will more than justify the simple means.

This for the large number who only need to be reminded of duty to cheerfully perform it, as for the rest, they should be compelled. The one is, by right of inheritance and the privilege of election, entitled to so many cubic inches of life-giving air, at each respiration, the other should be required to take it, alike for his own good and pro bono publico. THE speech delivered at the Court House, last night, by Mr. Chas. F. Armistead, colored, of Charleston, W. Va., is spoken of very highly by many of those who heard it. A large crowd was present. Mr. Armistead spoke for nearly two hours and held the attention of his audience to the close. His speech was well received and shows him to be a man of intelligence.

THE Yeoman says: The trial, confession, conviction and sentence of Samuel Bulger, the negro who committed the rape at Maysville, should have a good effect upon mob spirit throughout the State. It is creditable to Maysville and Mason county that the great impulse of the community has been restrained, and that the negro has been reserved for the formal action of the law. The moral effect of inflicting punishment for this horrible crime in a decent and orderly way will be much better than if it had been done at the hands of a lawless crowd. Let it be once understood that sure punishment will follow crime, and there will be less of it in Kentucky. The jury in this case was absent seven minutes, and brought in a verdict of death. The testimony of the father of the girl was that she was under twelve years of age.

SAMUEL BULGER.

Continuation of His Criminal History—He Would Rather Hang Than be Imprisoned for Life.

WARNING TO YOUNG MEN.

This morning a reporter for the BULLETIN, at Bulger's request, visited his cell at the jail, and received from him some additional facts in his criminal history, of which he desired to unburden himself. He is not at all depressed in spirits, but on the contrary, talks cheerfully, seems to be resigned to his fate, and is emphatic in his declaration that he would rather be hanged than imprisoned for life in the penitentiary. He is a mulatto, of regular features, is slightly built, and notwithstanding his long career in crime, is only a few months over twenty-two years of age. The story told is as follows:

I was in jail several times at New Orleans, generally for fighting and minor offences. I never committed any serious crime there, nor at Cincinnati, as I considered those places the points where I wished to stay. I was at New Orleans frequently, and often met Maysville people. I waited on Mr. James H. Hall and his sons a number of times while I was at the City Hotel.

I was at St. Paul, Minnesota, once, and saw a countryman sell two head of cattle and receive the money for them. I followed him for some time, and then went to him, pretending that I knew him. I got him to go with me to a saloon where I spent about a dollar and a half on him. When we went out he was pretty drunk, so I took him up a dark alley and worked him for his roll. I got something over a hundred dollars. I don't remember the exact amount. I have often gotten money in this way, and one time took in $280. I usually spent it for good clothes and sometimes a watch, which I would pawn when I needed money again.

I sometimes worked in barber shops, and while there was often able to commit thefts which were not detected. My plan was to take a man after he had gotten out of the chair, brush him off, tap him under the chin, and while his head was raised go for his pockets.

I was at one time working with Sells' Brothers circus and at Greenville, Ind., had some some trouble when I wanted to quit about getting my money. When the train that carried the circus was moving out from the town at night for Fort Wayne, I hid in a cut near the place, and shot at Modoc, the boss canvas man, with whom I had the difficulty, but whether I hit him or not I don't know as I did not stop to see.

I wanted to say to the reporter yesterday something about an adventure I had on the lower Mississippi, but forgot it. I was cabin boy on the steamer Florence Myers, commanded by Capt. Nickols, which, when fourteen days out from Cincinnati, sunk at Good Hope Landing, Arkansas, and drowned seven persons. We laid on the bank without food and clothing all that day and until three o'clock the next afternoon, when we received relief from Nashville, Tenn., and later went to New Orleans by the steamer Lee.

I was always very quick tempered and often in trouble on that account. I was seldom able to work anywhere more than two or three weeks before I was discharged on account of my sullen nature. I remember once at the Metropolitan Hotel, New York, where I was elevator boy I got into a fight with one of the guests who was going up on the elevator, and while we were fighting it went through the roof of the house.

I have traveled all over the United States, and almost invariably beat my way wherever I wanted to go. That was the way I met Hiram Hendrickson at Cincinnati. We were both trying to beat our way to Maysville, and were in each other's way, and therefore both had to pay. When I want to beat my way on a boat I go into the hold, and only come out during the night. The men seldom inform on me, and if they attempt to do it I bluff them with a pistol, and if they do tell on me they generally turn up missing.

He then resumed his story, and said: There are many other crimes I have been guilty of during my life, but I cannot think of them all now. I want you to warn all the young men of Maysville not to read the Police Gazette, Illustrated Times, Police News, and dime novels, for they will certainly bring them to a bad end. I have been a constant reader of them all, and my evil deeds have all been done on account of what I saw and read in those papers. This is all I have to say to-day.

A Distinguished Arrival.
The roll of the stirring drum and the ear-piercing shrieks of the life that broke upon the still air of night Wednesday evening, and alarmed many of our citizens, heralded the approach of a mob, but not the sort of a mob the timid had been expecting, a mob, not seeking to inflict vengeance for the outraged laws of the land, but a crowd of citizens "striving to make the endeavor" to give a hearty welcome, and to extend the far-famed hospitalities of Kentucky to a distinguished stranger who comes to sojourn for a short time in our midst. It was a welcome to Corporal Simonds, George Simonds, of well known reputation, for his human beauty and polite exhibitions, who came Wednesday evening from the far distant Green Mountains of "Vairmont," to visit for a very short period the breezy hills and sunny valleys of old Kentucky. The crowd was worthy the occasion, the man was worthy the crowd, and the orator was worthy the circumstances, and fully up to the event. It was fitting that a boy from the mountains of Kentucky (tho' not green) should welcome a man from the mountains of "Vairmont" (very green). This duty was ably, honestly, intelligently and grandiloquently performed by Mr. Caleb Brooks, the scintillations of whose wit, and the lambent caressations of whose genius are only equalled by the lurid flashes of the lambent bolts of his own mountain storms, and whose breathing thoughts uttered in burning words, accompanied with a voice whose musical tones are not exceeded by any of the genius cervus that fly over the plains of the county of Bath, or by the melodious tones of the gallinaceous birds who spread their brilliant plumage in the barnyards of Montgomery. Mr. Brooks, in his inimitable manner, told Mr. Simonds that he was glad to see him—so were the people. Glad that he lived a long ways off—so were the people. Glad that he came to stay but a short time—so were the people. Hoped that the pleasure enjoyed by him during his sojourn in our midst would only be surpassed by the brevity of his stay among us—and so all the people hoped; and to this the crowd shouted, and all the people said amen.

Mr. Brooks here soared, grew eloquent and spoke of Mr. Simonds as a rare bird from an icy clime, who came with frozen wings to sunnier lands, and who, therefore, has never yet known how far in the blue empyrean his wings once thawed out may carry him. He hoped the genial influences of Kentucky sunshine would, with miraculous speed release the fettered pinions of this bird from another clime, and that when started once in full vigor is like the eagle's flight, would be out of sight, and his admiring friends of Maysville would gladly gaze upon his ascension at any time he signified his willingness to make the trip, and put his angelic plumage on. [Here the emotions of the orator overcame him and audible sobs were heard from the crowd.] Mr. Simonds, who had long been too full for utterance, and whose condition began to exhibit signs of dangerous reptation, bowed his graceful thanks with the agility of a practiced acrobat, to such a degree that several admiring friends in his immediate vicinity were severely wounded (in the neck) and to all the crowd was freely administered the wine of joy, if not the oil of consolation. We were right there; saw and heard it all; and this is the way it looked to Foreign Paupers.

CHICAGO, July 19.—An expressman with a load of emigrant paupers drove to the county agent's office, and was in the act of unloading them and their worldly effects, when he was ordered to move on. He became very indignant and threatened to have the officers exposed through the press. The officers are continually being pestered with these foreign paupers and have hard work to keep them away.

An idiotic boy, who has been at the county agent's office for two or three days, was sent to New York by the officers, who say that he belongs in Germany, and was sent from there to a point in Michigan about three weeks ago, either by his parents or the authorities. They have written a letter to the steamship company that brought him to return him to his native town.

A Mormon Blows Up His Wives With Dynamite.

SALT LAKE, UTAH, July 19.—Bishop Knudson, of Apley, Uintah county, is under arrest for blowing up his wives with dynamite, with the intent of killing one or more of them. He came to this city some five or six days ago and got some sticks of giant powder, which he placed under the bed of his first wife, blowing her up, and flooring the third wife, who was just coming into the room. He is charged with attempted murder. He claims that the ignition of the dynamite was accidental, and that he wanted it for fishing purposes. But as the use of dynamite is expressly prohibited by law, his excuse does not help him.
